

What is EB-5?

EB-5 is an immigration program where foreign investors have the opportunity to earn a Green Card for themselves and their families and become permanent residents in the United States. The EB-5 program was established in 1990 by the United States Congress. Each foreign national must invest capital into a project or commercial enterprise that creates at least ten full-time, U.S. based jobs and satisfy certain other requirements. If the project is successful in proving that the job creation targets have been met, the investor will receive their permanent residency status (i.e. Green Card). In addition, the investor has an opportunity to earn a positive return on the investment.

How much do you have to invest through EB-5?

Participation in the EB-5 program for a prospective U.S. immigrant involves an at risk investment of $1 million US Dollars. This investment amount can be reduced to $500,000 if the investment is made in a targeted employment area (TEA). A TEA is defined as an area that has an unemployment rate 150% or more above the national average.

What is an EB-5 Escrow?

An escrow is a special bank account where funds can be held and only released upon the satisfactory meeting of certain conditions. An EB-5 escrow is commonly used to hold investor funds until an investor's I-526 petition is approved (or some other similar conditions). Upon satisfaction of the conditions, money is released into the job-creating project.

What are the job creation requirements?

The investment must create or preserve at least 10 full-time jobs within 24 months from the date of conditional residency to be eligible to receive a permanent Green Card.

What is a Regional Center?

An EB-5 Regional Center is a business approved by the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to coordinate and substantiate foreign investments for specific types of job-creating projects within a designated geographic area.

What is an I-526?

An I-526 is the form used to petition the USCIS for status as an immigrant to the United States. The investor's immigration attorney files the form to demonstrate the investor is in the process of investing or has already invested the required amount into a suitable EB-5 project. Once approved, and following a successful consular interview, an investor receives conditional residency status and may live and work in the U.S. pending the approval of their I-829 petition.

What is an I-829?

The I-829 is the final document that must be submitted before an investor can become a lawful permanent resident of the United States. This petition includes evidence that the investor has successfully met all of the USCIS EB-5 requirements, including the job creation requirements. Upon approval of the I-829, the prior conditions on the investor's Green Card are removed.
